

NEWPORT HAS SOCIETY AND SENSATION.

NEWPORT, July 3.—Considering the fact that no especially notable entertainments have been given here during the week, except the small informal dinners among the cottagers, Newport has not been behind the times in the way of excitement. There are one or two rumored engagements in circulation, announcements of several arrivals of people who come to Newport for a splittled summer's campaign, besides two cases of robbery. The young daughter of G. M. Hutton was accosted in broad daylight on her father's villa, Shamrock Cliff, one of the handsomest of summer places here, and frightened into giving the highwayman money. She was accompanied by her governess, but neither woman had the presence of mind to call for help, and the tramp disappeared.

Police Headquarters were notified, and after a diligent search the man was run down, having been arrested as he begged from house to house the day after. Miss Hutton immediately identified him and he was found to be a Frenchman by name of Francis X. Gagne, whom the police arrested as a suspicious character about this time last year. He was sent to jail for one year, and the residents in this portion of Newport feel greatly relieved. W. E. D. Stokes was presented with a magnificent set of silver-mounted harness by the Earl of Russell. Thieves endeavored to break into his stable and steal the gift, but they were detected just in time and frightened away.

The first real social attraction of the season will be the concert at the Casino, Monday, the 5th, when the horseshoe piazzas will be filled with society people. The first hop occurs in the evening. The Casino itself is an attractive spot to look upon, the grass being kept like velvet and the tennis courts in perfect condition. Beginning this week, the evening concerts will be held every Wednesday and Sunday.

So far society has been amusing itself by driving, tandem, four-in-hand coaches, natty traps and victorias being the principal conveyances. Among those who drive daily are Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, Mrs. J. H. M. Grosvenor, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Belmont, Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan Wintrop, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Hutton, Mr. and Mrs. Cass Canfield, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wadsworth Ritchie, Mr. and Mrs. Perry A. Tiffany, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Drexel, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mr. and Mrs. H. Duryea, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Sorehan, Mr. and Mrs. George Crocker, Mrs. Ella Dyer, Jr., Mrs. W. W. Warrs Sherman, Mr. Alfred Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. Lordard Spencer, the Misses Blight, Miss Fair, Miss Struthers, Miss Wintrop, Mr. and Miss E. F. Rook, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Yulee, Mrs. John La Farge, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ogden and Mr. De Forest Danielson. Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer, of Chicago, sailed from Europe last week and will come immediately to Newport, where the Pratt villa has already been opened for their reception. With the Palmers will come their niece, Miss Julia Dent Grant, of New York, and the two young Palmer sons. The first entertainment Mrs. Palmer will give will be for the younger set in honor of Miss Grant.

The Placid cottages, which constitute a little colony the most exclusive of the exclusive, are now already filled, and the vine-covered verandas and red chairs present one of the delightful spots of Newport. In No. 1 are living Mrs. Oliver B. Jennings and Miss Annie Jennings, of New York; No. 2, Mrs. William Ogden, of New York; No. 3, Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan Wintrop, of New York; No. 4, servants of Chauncey M. Depew, who arrived July 15; No. 5, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pendleton Rogers, of New York, and the latter's mother, Mrs. Shillito, of Cincinnati.

Leland's Ocean House has had its formal opening and is now rapidly filling with guests. The orchestra has arrived, and life about the hotel affords a little town of itself. Among the more prominent guests Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Burchard (nee Church), who were married this week at Little Compton, are quietly spending their honeymoon there. Mr. Burchard is the son of the late Dr. Burchard, who made himself famous by his great cam-palen speech, "Down with rum, Romanism and rebellion," some years ago.

The latest report of friends to whom Mrs. Grover Cleveland wrote from Buzzard's Bay this week is that the Cleverlands will not stop with the Sidney Websters, is reported, but will come here unostentatiously and register for a few days at the Ocean House during the latter part of July.

Mrs. Cleveland is fond of Newport for the beauty of the place, and ex-President Cleveland prefers to visit there independently of social life," writes the informant. Late arrivals at the Ocean House include H. T. Green, J. J. London, Oliver B. Bridgman, Augustus G. Shepard, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Farley, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Riley, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Read, Mrs. C. MacKenney, Mrs. H. W. Young, J. A. Ferris and A. L. Haver, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. H. Blosser, of Providence; W. B. Wolfe, John J. McCook, of Boston; Mrs. B. S. Wood, Miss Wood, Miss H. J. Wood, Mrs. Read, of Philadelphia; G. A. Fisher, of Chicago; C. R. Rockwell, of Cleveland. The annual banquet of the Society of the Cleverlands will occur there Monday evening.

Aqueduct arrivals are: Viola Allen, Robert Rodman, Mrs. Mary Bryant, of La Platte; W. Higgins, T. H. Holden, W. E. Colley, F. N. Dowling, of Providence; M. E. Cronell, E. O. Underhill, of New York; George Neth, H. D. Borne, S. W. Borne, of Hartford; P. C. Powers, of Springfield; W. H. Elder, of Washington; Martha Quincey, of Illinois; A. L. Kent and R. G. Harris, of Birmingham.

Miss Louis Quintin Jones will have as a guest at her villa during the greater part of July Miss Marie de Neuville, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jules de Neuville, of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt arrived for the season this week, coming up from New York on their yacht, the Conqueror.

Those who entertained with small dinners this week have been Mrs. Sidney Webster, Mrs. Edward T. Rook, Mrs. George Crocker, Mrs. I. Townsend Burden, Mrs. T. M. Davis, Mrs. Burke Roche, Mrs. E. R. Wharton and Lisenard Stewart, the latter giving a dinner in honor of the Rev. and Mrs. Magill. Miss Stuyvesant Fish entertained for Miss Hewitt, of New York.

H. P. Taylor, of Philadelphia, has arrived for the season.

Newport society is somewhat disappointed this year owing to the English Embassy at Washington having selected Beverly Farms for their Summer headquarters and not Newport, as expected.

Dr. Russell Bellamy is one of the handsomest young bachelors registered at the Ocean House.

Mrs. Potter, wife of Bishop Potter, has been visiting Mrs. Charles H. Baldwin at her villa, "Snug Harbor," but has opened her own cottage on Rhode Island avenue this week.

Other late cottage arrivals at Newport include Miss C. Ogden Jones, Mrs. Hugh T. Dickey, Mr. Theodore Davis, Mrs. Isaac Bell, Mrs. Charles Crocker, Mr. Harper Pennington and Mr. A. H. Sanda.

The opening of the Newport Clambake Club takes place July 1, at the Robin's place, on Eastern Point. Hermann Oelrichs is the president of the association, and a large number is expected to turn out, as the Clambake Club gives some of the swagker informal functions of the island.

Some one has started a report, which has travelled like wildfire, to the effect that the Ogden Goetts will return to Newport from England the latter part of July, and bring with them as a guest a member of the English royal family, presumably one of the two sons of Princess Christian of Denmark, who is Queen Victoria's third daughter. Again, as the young man's name is not clearly known, he may be a son of Princess Mary of Teck. An American alliance is quite possible with either young prince, the families having intermarried outside of royalty already.

The Baron and Baroness de Solliere are announced to arrive the middle of July. "Inchiquin," their villa near Bally's Beach, is being put in readiness for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goetz have arrived at their villa on Narragansett avenue and the Cliffs, and have as their guest Mr. Frank L. Riggs, who will remain in Newport all Summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney are entertaining Miss Esther Hunt, daughter of Mrs. K. M. Hunt, of New York.

The Rev. W. K. Schermerhorn is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony S. Sherman.

The marriage of Miss Edith Blight and William P. Thompson, of Ohio, whose engagement was the chief topic of gossip last week, it is stated by the family, will be solemnized at the Blight cottage in Newport the early part of September.

Miss Hayward, of New York, is at the Wilson cottage on Beech street for the Summer.

Miss Garrison, of New York, who will soon open her cottage here, is the guest of the Brices, who are also entertaining Mrs. Potter Palmer's young son, Honore Palmer, till the Potter Palmers arrive next week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Mitchell, of New York, have taken the cottage on Catherine street, owned by the Warners, for the Summer.

A late comer to Newport will be Commodore Gerry, who has sent his retinue of servants on to open his villa. Robert L. Gerry, his son, is registered at the Mounchinger-King cottage.

Another Newport excitement for the week was the arrival of Forepaugh's Circus on Wednesday, which paraded the avenue in the morning, through the string of carriages of Newport cottagers, and performed before a number of society members at night.

Francis P. Freeman is occupying his cottage, Tower Top, this Summer.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, but will sail for Europe July 7, to join his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman R. Duryea have taken the Chickering cottage for the Summer.

Dr. and Mrs. George Swinburne, of New York, will spend the season at Swinburne Homestead, in Greenwich place.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Pearson are here for the entire Summer.

Mrs. Cornelia Gould is visiting Mrs. William Burdick, on Rhode Island avenue.

Mr. George Work, of New York, is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Burke Roche, at her villa on Bellevue avenue. Miss Turner, of New York, is also a guest of Mrs. Burke Roche.

Mrs. Amelia T. Dunbar, of Providence, has leased the Stacy cottage, on Powell avenue, for the social season.

HIGH JINKS AT STAUD NARRAGANSETT.

Narragansett Pier, R. I., July 3.—Every Summer resort has its characteristic amusement.

Saratoga's is racing; Newport's driving; Asbury's is bathing, and Ocean Grove's is psalm singing.

Narragansett's is simply and plainly—high jinks.

At Narragansett no one dreams of bathing in the surf. That is, no one who is any one.

The thing to do at the Pier is to put on your smartest clothes and go down at the bathing hour to watch the high jinks.

What do I mean by high jinks?

We'll suppose we are at Narragansett. At 11 o'clock we make a careful toilette, quite as careful as for a Fifth avenue parade, and go down to the white stretch of beach.

Like cages filled with gorgeous-hued and chattering parrots, the wooden pavilions glow with musical babble and shrieks of laughter. Scarlet parasols and pink hats and white frocks make a fete of the scene, with the background of the brilliant azure of the sea.

On the beach, lounging about in dolce far niente (which as every one knows is the Italian for "devil may care"), attitudes, are some of the smartest folks at the Pier.

Handsome, brawny young fellows with the bronze and red of the yachtman's glow in their cheeks chat gaily with the bathing girls.

Suddenly, one of the prettiest belles at the Pier Springs up and, seizing a tremendous swell by the hand, executes with him a few fancy steps, punctuated by numerous kicks, which would make an Otero wild with envy.

Shouts of approving laughter and clapping of gleeful hands come from an adjacent pavilion.

Exquisitely roamed women leave the pavilions and come down to see these tugs of war. Laughing and exclaiming on these seaside contests, they excite their friends to higher jinks. One young woman goes so far as to strike almost the exact attitude of the Bacchante in the Metropolitan Museum, in New York.

The fun waxes fast and furious. Rosy faces grow rosier and laughter rings shriller. A few prosaic, humdrum folks are actually out in the surf ronder.

Fudge! We can bathe at the hotel or in our cottage. That's not what we are here for. We are here to have a high old time. This society has its ding, and the world is privileged to look on at the piquant frolics of the Pier's Four Hundred.

Do you know what would be the greatest sport on earth? I'll tell you. Turn Narragansett Pier loose in Ocean Grove and watch the riot from a safe distance.

For two hours the fun is kept up. Then the jocular revellers run races to the bath-houses. As the dainty girls fly past you remark that the snug-fitting costumes are as dry as when donned, and the burden of an old song is wafted to your memory: "Mother, may I a-swimming go?"

O, yes, my darling daughter; Hang your clothes on a hickory limb, And don't go near the water."

A REGATTA FOR RIVERSIDE. It is the Ninth Annual of the Yacht Club and Will Be an Elaborate Affair.

Riverside, Conn., July 3.—Elaborate preparations are being made for the annual regatta of the Riverside Yacht Club, which will be held Wednesday next and Saturday. It will be the ninth annual regatta. The races on the first day will be for schooners and all classes of sloops, cutters, yawls, etc., and on Saturday the races will be for sloops and cutters under 25 feet. The Atlantic Yacht Club having accepted the invitation of the club to start in its annual cruise from Riverside, and to participate in the races on Wednesday, this event will be of unusual interest. A steamer has been chartered for the use of the members and their guests for the day, and will be in charge of the Entertainment Committee, Walter G. Buxton, J. C. Varian and C. F. Stewart. In the evening there will be a fireworks display, during which an orchestra will render music, followed by a dance in the parlors of the clubhouse. The following yachtsmen compose the Regatta Committee: George Benton Clark, Frank Bowne Jones and H. W. Tyler.

One of the largest crowds of the season attended the dance at the Riverside Yacht Club Saturday evening, it being the fourth of the series. Many of the guests came up to spend the holiday.

The reception given by Mrs. J. A. Walden, at the Walden House, was attended by a large number of the Summer colony, the decorations were in pink and white. During the evening there was a game of whist, at the conclusion of which supper drawing rooms were prettily decorated throughout with American beauty roses, peonies and palms. The Misses Lillian and Ida Tyson received the guests. After the awarding of the prizes, a collation was served, followed by an informal dance. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. George E. Lucius, Misses Healey, Mrs. J. P. Walden, Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Tyson, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Seymour, Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Houghton, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Healey, Mr. and Mrs. William Redman, Mr. and Mrs. James Redman, Mrs. Edward Gardiner.

Henry H. Tyson had a gay party of people on board his yacht, the Whitby, the other day. Those in the party besides

FIRST OF BAR HARBOR'S FESTIVITIES.

Bar Harbor, Me., July 3.—The Summer festivities opened to-night with a dinner-dance at Kebo. As a rule the dancing does not begin till 11 o'clock and ends when the rays of the rising sun mark the Eastern horizon with its rosy glow. These merry dancers will be the only ones really celebrating the Fourth of July, as in other places celebrating on the third, dancing is advertised for the afternoon only, while most of the celebrating is arranged for Monday.

At Kebo Valley every effort is being made

RYE BOASTS OF A CHAMPION.

Bob Fitzsimmons Takes Up His Summer Residence There and Makes Fast Friends of His Neighbors.

Rye, N. Y., July 3.—Rye has a champion this year and his name is Robert Fitzsimmons. His ring has no boundaries and his knockout blow has thus far been confined to an appetite. "Fitz" and his family are occupying one of the Beck cottages. Incidentally the man of athletics occasionally visits the blacksmith shop and makes a couple of horseshoes just to show that his hand has by no means lost its cunning.

John R. Downey, of New York, gave a coaching party, followed by a luncheon, at the American Yacht Club house, entertaining a large party of New Yorkers.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Ellsworth and family, of New York, occupy Mr. R. F. Downing's cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dimond, of No. 20 West Seventy-third street, New York, have returned to their Summer residence on Park avenue.

At the last meeting of the Rye Tennis Club the following officers were elected: President, Frederick D. Ives; vice-president, B. Lambert Sackett; secretary-treasurer, Henry W. Cooper; board of directors, F. H. Wiggin, Ernest Whittemore, H. H. Wiggin, H. A. Sherman and Arthur C. Wynne.

It is expected that Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid and family, who have been abroad enjoying the Diamond Jubilee celebration, will return to Rye some time during August.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bied, of Brooklyn, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Slater.

Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Palmer and family, of New York, have returned to their cottage in Portchester for the Summer season.

The coach "Enterprise," piloted by George R. Read, the well-known real estate broker, will make a trip to Rye Lake Sunday, starting from Mr. Read's residence at 5 o'clock in the morning.

this year to increase the popularity of the club. Several changes have been made regarding entertainments and the matter of dress. No special arrangement of dinners will be made for every week, though the dinners will be announced, and if fifty seats are signed for they will come off as usual. The regular restaurant will be done away with this season, and a grill room supplied in its place for members. In the matter of dress the arrangement this year makes it less expensive than formerly, particularly for golf players, as separate links have been abolished. The links have been enlarged and materially improved.

The diplomats are quite in evidence here this year, and these are always welcomed in society. The first to arrive are Baron and Baroness Engelmann von Hengwar, the Austro-Hungarian Minister and his wife. They are occupying what is known as the Bandox, a roomy, though rather ugly, house on Cottage street, right in the centre of the town.

Other of the diplomats who will come to Bar Harbor are Count Julio Galarza, of the Spanish Legation; M. Maurice Trubert, Secretary of the French Legation; Dr. Vogel, of the Swiss Legation; Seyffeldin Bey, Turkish Secretary; M. Constantin Brun, Minister from Denmark; Count Vinc, of the Italian Legation; Dr. Hans Wagner, of the Austro-Hungarian Legation.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Gerard, of New York, with their two sons, Julian and Sumner Gerard, arrived this week and have taken the Stanton cottage on the Eagle Lake road.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Emery, of New York, who have one of the most handsomely appointed houses in Bar Harbor, will entertain extensively this year.

J. L. M. Curry and family, of Washington, are occupying the Hardy cottage on Kebo street. Mr. Curry was Minister to Spain under ex-President Cleveland.

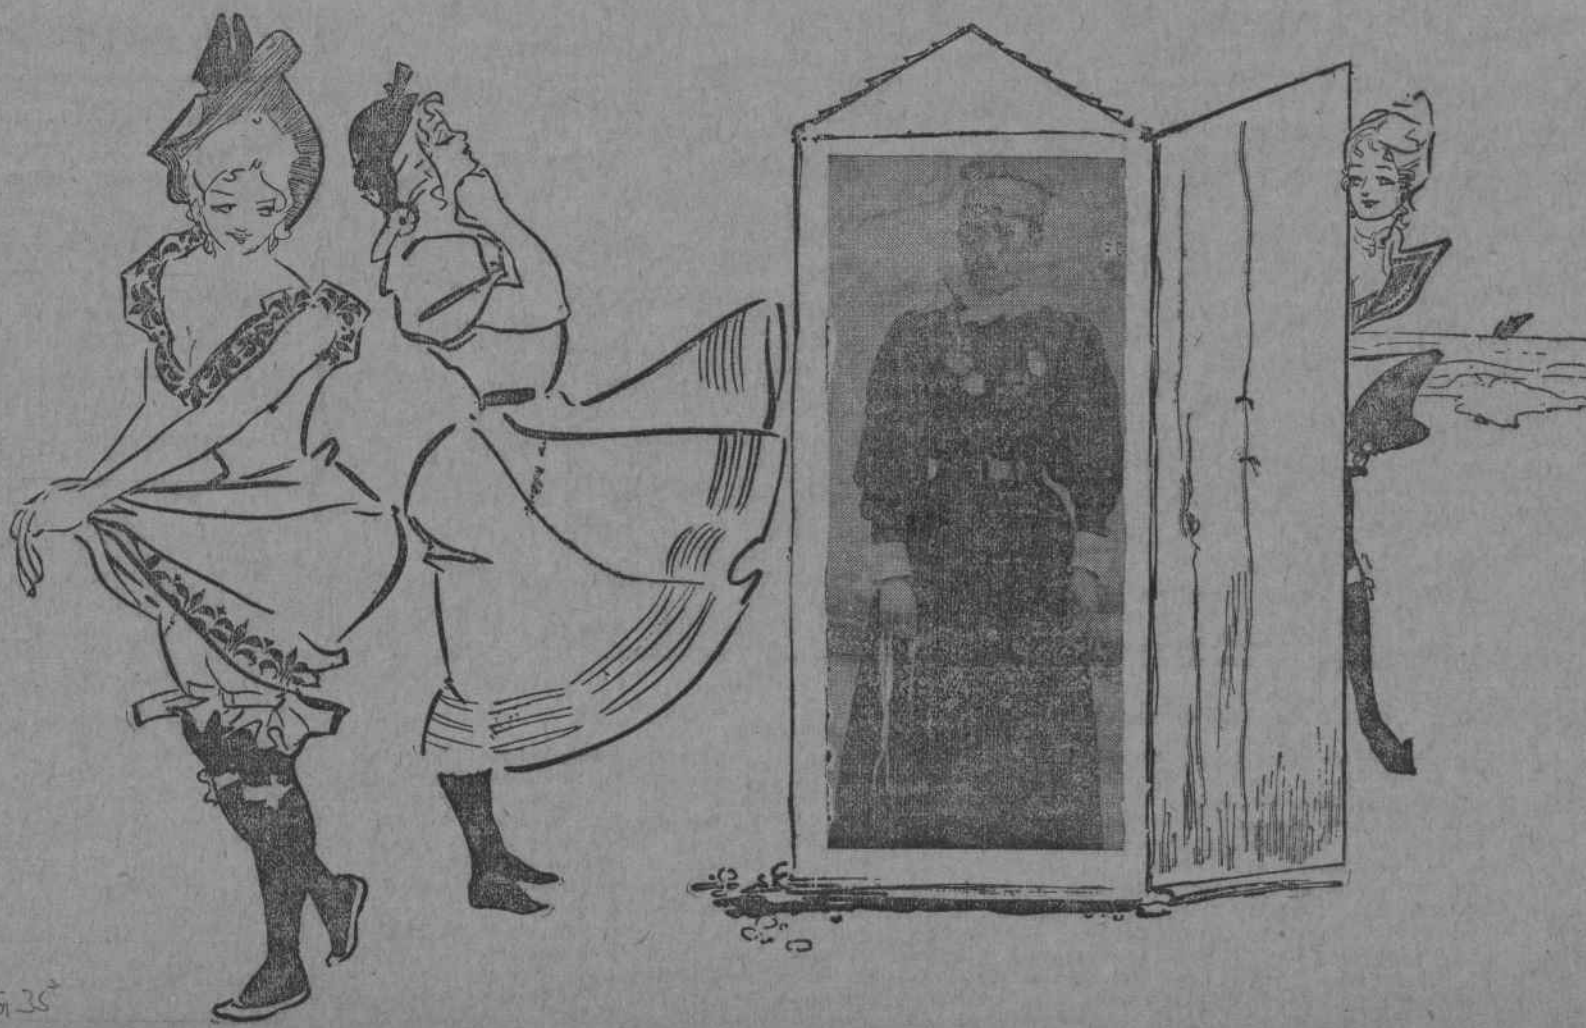

Gardner Sherman, of New York, and his new wife came directly to Bar Harbor on their return from Europe, and will spend the Summer here.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Schieffelin, of New York, are at "Clearfield," in Albert Meadow, which they rented last season for a term of years.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Montgomery, of Washington, arrived Tuesday for the season.

All the hotels are now open, including the Lonsborg and Malvern, which opened this week.

Miss F. M. Perry, of Plainfield, N. J., and Miss F. M. Hunter, of Fairhaven, N. Y., have taken a cottage at Sullivan Harbor for the season. Miss Perry, whose mother was a Pierpont, of Pierpont street, Brooklyn, is herself engaged in missionary work, and has spent several years in Japan gathering in little waifs from streets, making good Episcopalists of them. Being out of health this year she thus resort to recuperation.
